COMPANY PROFILE

We are a Portuguese company, and we design our portfolio by combining innovation with tradition. This culture translates into products of the best quality and taste, which arrive daily to the homes of consumers, since 1971. This is the purpose of our existence. We offer a diversified portfolio consisting of food products that meet different needs and adapt to different consumer moments, trends, and consumer profiles. The Ferbar brand is well-known for its Easter Almonds and for its Dried Fruit and Nuts. Quince marmalade and canned vegetables also delight thousands of consumers every day in Portugal and around the world, since FERBAR products are sold in different international markets.

Our Tropical Range – which includes tapioca, flaked corn flour, farofa, manioc flour, and sweet and sour manioc starch (polvilhos) – brings the authentic flavours of Brazilian cuisine to our consumers. These products celebrate the diversity of tastes and culinary traditions that inspire our brand, offering versatile and high-quality ingredients for both traditional recipes and creative, modern dishes.

All our products respect a basic principle: the highest quality standards, which makes Ferbar a brand that consumers trust. Our values reflect our family ideals, and we work with care every day to bring products of excellence to consumers. It is not what we do that defines us. It is what we are. Integrity guides our ethos. We care for the environment, the community, and our stakeholders. We nurture relationships of trust. And we improve as we continually embrace new challenges.

PRODUCTS

Ferbar's products offer a distinctive value proposition: high-quality raw materials that combine Portuguese tradition with innovation in both packaging and product. For example, the use of Tetra Recart packaging for legumes provides technological, environmental, and functional advantages (emission reduction, ease of use, improved storage) compared to traditional packaging.
